UkeClaw: Don't let your third grade piano teacher steer you wrong here, you can adjust tempo as needed to get the best presentation out to your audience. I would have fermatas all over this thing if it didn't mess up the other voices. If you're doing an ensemble, pick a leader to set the tempo and adjust as needed. Pay attention to the dynamics and make sure the accompaniment falls into the background while the melody notes sing out. And slow down. It's supposed to evoke the beauty of cherry blossoms covering the hills.
